Datos generales

Anna Sokolova , rusa

is an international law professional, professor, leadership advisor, and mentor with more than thirty years of experience in cross-cultural negotiations, conflict resolution, global business consulting, education, and international exchange.

As a mentor to the CosmoRide team, Anna played a central role in transforming an ambitious educational concept into a clear, structured, and internationally relevant project. She guided the team through strategic decision-making, market positioning, intercultural communication, and pitch preparation, while helping its members develop confidence as founders and emerging leaders.

Anna combined practical business guidance with exceptional personal support. She challenged the team to think critically, communicate its value more effectively, and understand the expectations of international partners and audiences. Her mentorship helped CosmoRide strengthen its vision, articulate its impact, and develop a more professional and sustainable approach to building a global educational community.

Anna's current work focuses on developing communities of practice, professional networks, and future leaders. She is particularly committed to mentoring and supporting young women as they learn to negotiate, lead, and establish themselves in their chosen industries.

A professional facilitator, coach, and network builder, Anna brings strategic insight, cultural intelligence, creativity, and a broad international network to every project she supports.
